This European-based software corporation produces enterprise software to help businesses manage operations and customer relations. With regional offices in 180 countries, they support over 335,000 customers.

Staffing

In this project, Pacific Data Integrators (PDI) delivered quality JAVA Engineers, QA Engineers, and Project Managers to support a cloud initiative.

Project Summary

As part of this project, PDI was chosen to handle staffing for a global software company. This organization had recently acquired another company and wanted to create a cloud version of their product. The product was an online marketplace for corporate America's indirect spend. While the marketplace already existed, the company wanted to create a cloud-based environment to increase the quality of the marketplace.

PDI delivered quality JAVA engineers, QA engineers, and Project Managers over a 15-month timespan. The client was so happy with our consultants that they were hired full time at the end of the project.
